DESIGN EXPLORATION

3D SCULPTURE OF POOVY CLOWN

TAN YI YUN 0345559

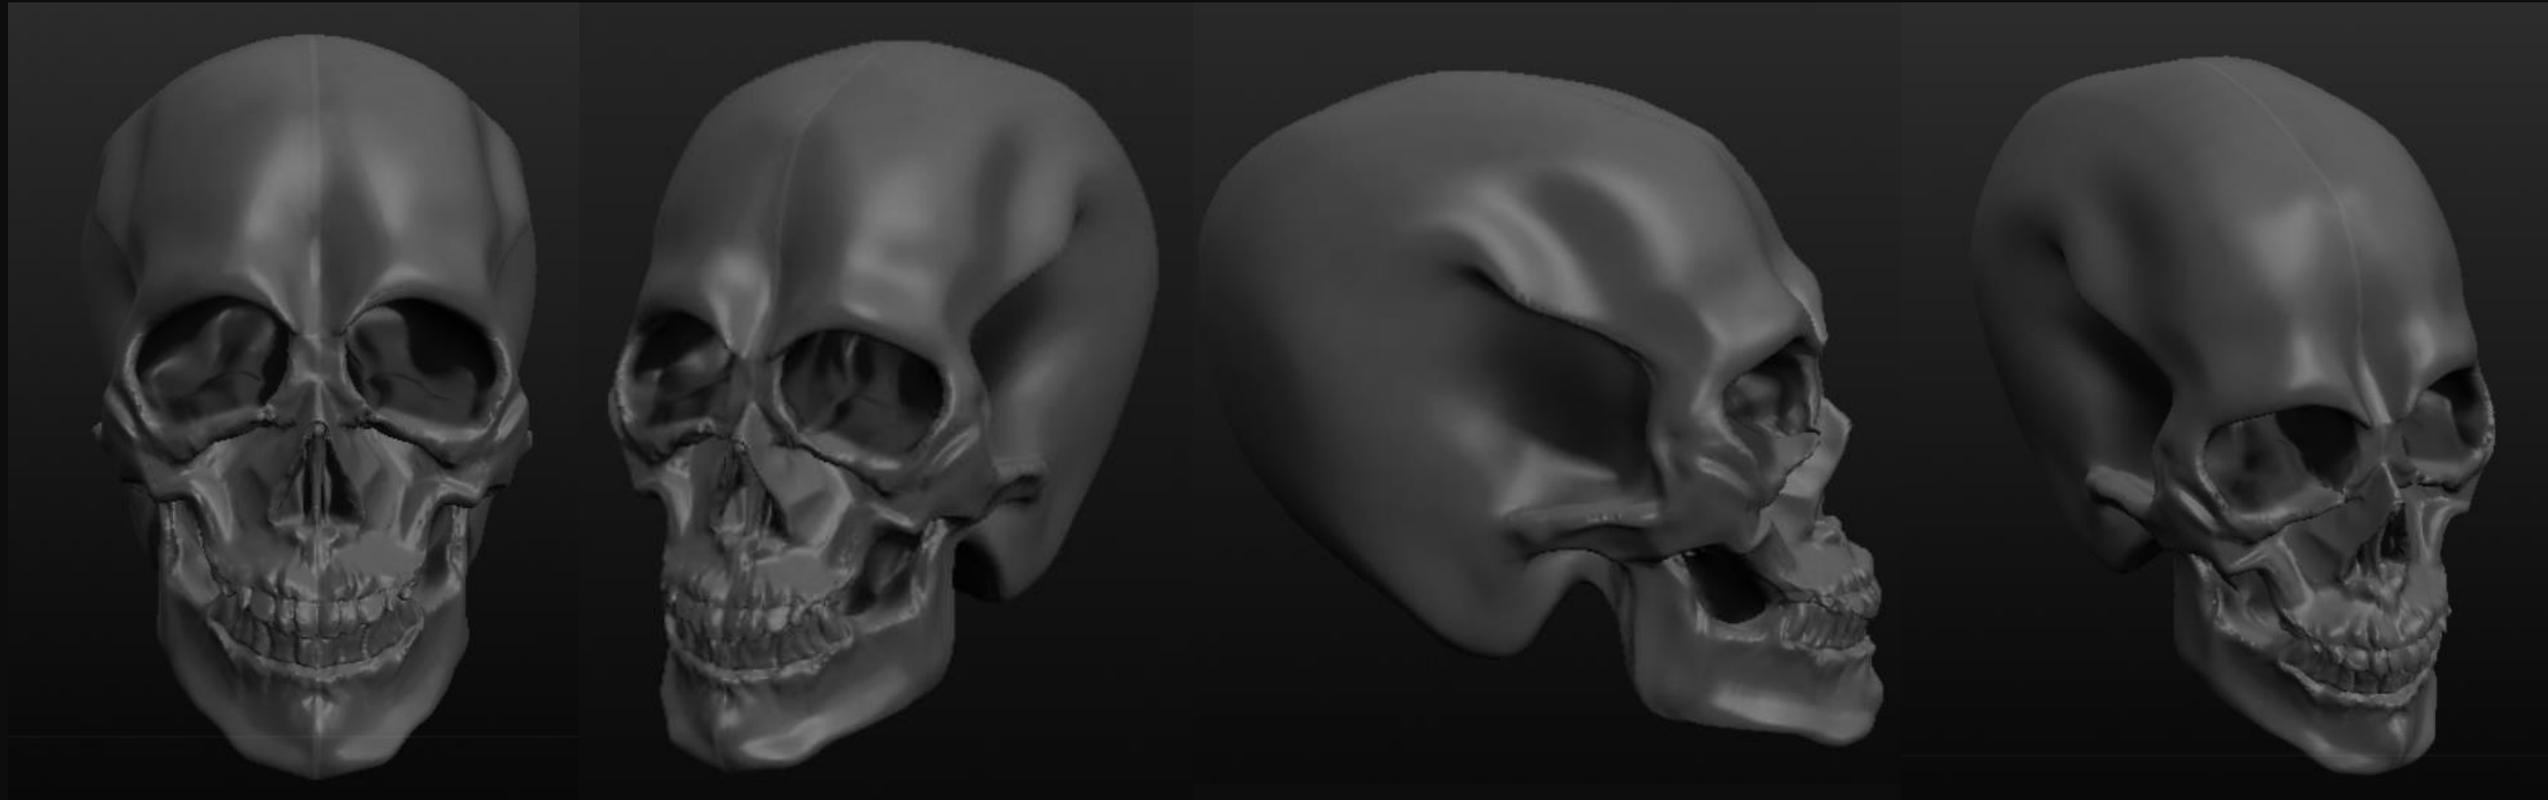

Poovy Clown is a devil who steals people's memories during their sleep. She is designed with a heart-shaped head from the normal view, but a goat face appeared from the top view. She has a pig snout and a pair of long eyebrows which hides her mystery eyes. She always has a creepy smile on her face.

Process of Making the Final Sculpture

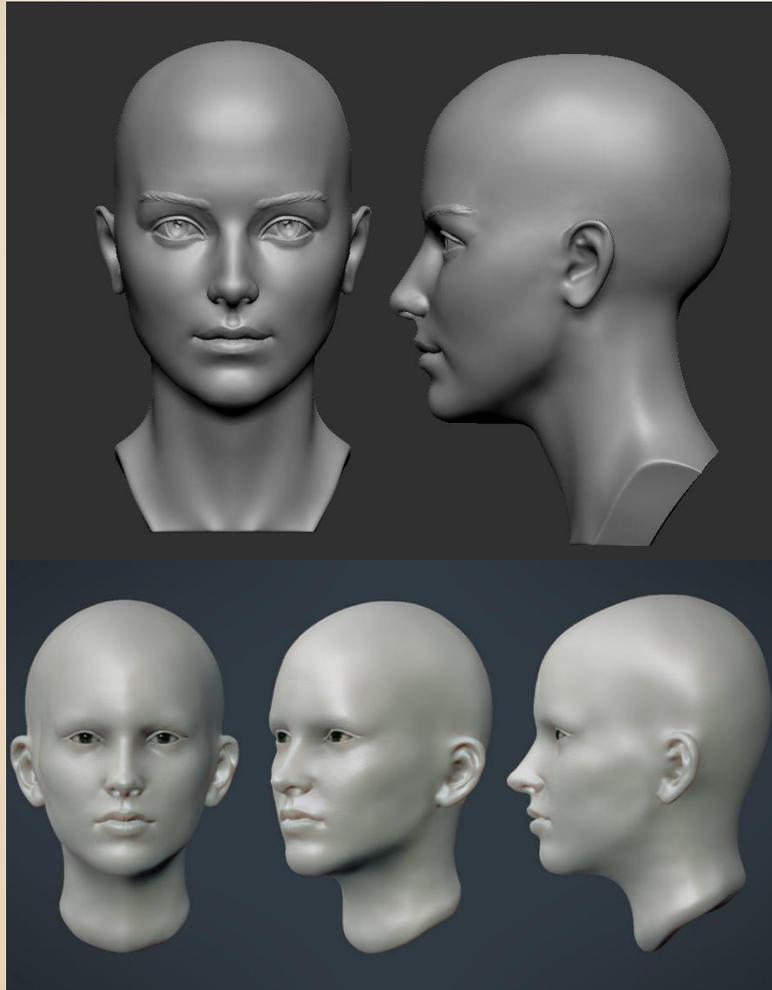

Inspiration

I would like to use a variety of elements such as Bonsai tree, wind, or animals to composite a rhythmic sculpture. But due to the time limitation, I will not colour the sculpture but focusing on the details of my sculpture.

Phoenix

Why I choose Phoenix?

Fenghuang 凤凰, also called feng or Chinese phoenix, in Chinese mythology, an immortal bird whose rare appearance is said to be an omen foretelling harmony at the ascent to the throne of a new emperor. It is often considered to signify both male and female elements, a yinyang harmony; and its name is a combination of the words feng representing the male aspect and huang the female. The Phoenix symbolizes high virtue and grace, which is the king of birds. During the Yuan Dynasty, the Phoenix has become the symbol of femininity.

Why I choose to sculpt Chinese ancient girl?

Women in ancient China did not enjoy the status, either social or political, afforded to men. I would like to raise the awareness of gender equality by creating a heroine sculpture. I also wanted to highlight the beauty features of Asian in my sculpture.

Setting

Hui, The Phoenix Girl

Her name is Hui. (荟) She lives in a mysterious valley which no one knows the exact location. In daytime, she incarnates as Phoenix and saves people from misery. She can summon the rain and thunder, she can let the crops grow, she can fulfill the wish of poor. As a phoenix, she still can communicate with the people. At night, she becomes the normal human. She needs the power of sun to help her transform into a Phoenix. She is a heroine of civilians but no one really knows what she looks like as a human. They imagine her as a beautiful lady, having long straight hair and a pair of beautiful eyes. They admire and respect her. She has a selfless heart, helping people her entire life. She is a heroine.

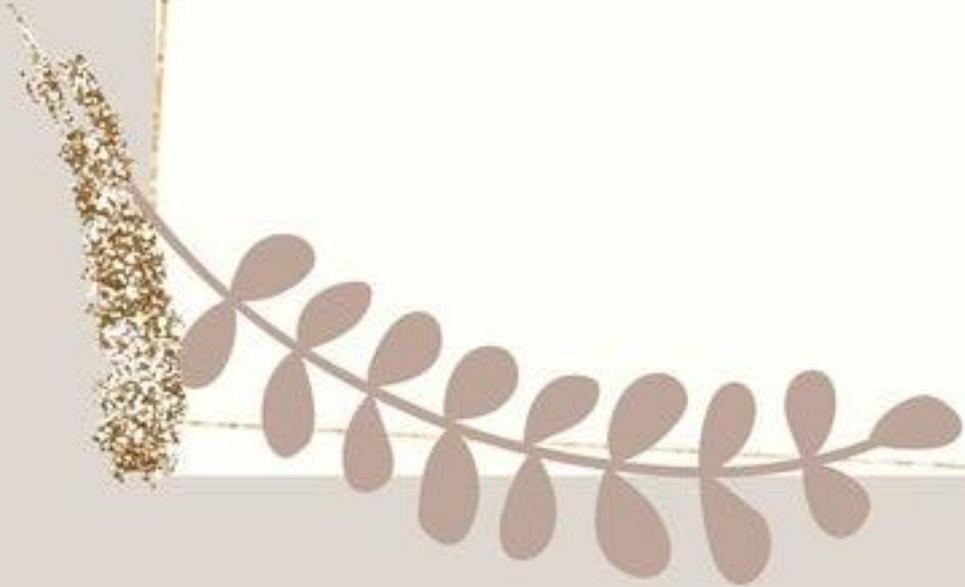

Conceptual Design

In the process of making the sculpture, I trace my sculpture in Clip Studio Paint to further improve the shape.
